Seven Lakes C.C., Palm Springs,

Situated in a prime location with sweeping triple fairway views, this mid-century gem, originally designed by renowned modernist Richard Harrison, was reimagined by noted architect Robert Kleinschmidt. Featured in Palm Springs Life and Interior Design magazine, the home epitomizes desert sophistication. Step into a sun-drenched space, where natural light pours in through a dramatic linear skylight that stretches across the living room. A custom cantilevered rosewood credenza thoughtfully divides the living and dining areas, adding a touch of artistry. Each room seamlessly connects to the outdoors, with floor-to-ceiling sliders that open onto either a serene private patio or a lush inner courtyard. The home's porcelain tile, laid in a striking ashlar bond pattern, exudes contemporary elegance while flowing effortlessly from interior spaces to exterior tranquility, creating a harmonious connection to the surrounding landscape. At the heart of the home, a modern chef's kitchen awaits, outfitted with premium Miele and Fisher & Paykel appliances, custom wooden cabinetry and sleek new quartz countertops--an ideal space for culinary creativity. New ceiling fans and discreet HVAC diffusers ensure optimal comfort in every room. Both spacious bedrooms feature lacquered cabinetry, built-in shelving, and ample closet storage, offering a blend of practicality and style. An EV charger is conveniently included in your carport. Plus, your pool escape and clubhouse are just nearby. Past the 24-hour guarded gate, 'The Gem of the Desert' offers a unique elevated lifestyle with its Ted Robinson-designed 18-hole executive golf course, 15 pools and spas. The lively William Cody designed clubhouse is waiting to welcome you to its formal dining room, casual cocktail lounge and a terrace overlooking the famous Seven Lakes fountain. Welcome home!
