N/A, Los Angeles,

As you enter the property through a discreet gate, you are immediately drawn to the natural elements of this special home. The sound of running water from a stream provides a sense of calm. Sunlight cascades through the trees and draws your attention to the clean lines and beauty of 13162 Boca de Canon. The newly plastered interior walls create warmth and texture, while natural quartzite stone flooring, beautiful wooden beams, and walls of glass accented with dramatic skylights blur the transition between inside and out. The front living room is breathtaking. Olive trees flank a gorgeous wood burning fireplace and stone mantle. The seamless transition from the living room to outdoor entertaining spaces further enhances the connection to nature. This thoughtfully renovated home offers four spacious bedrooms and an additional bonus room that can be used for fitness, work or play. The reimagined primary was designed with the intention of providing the ultimate space for wellness and relaxation. The private terrace and wood burning fireplace are simply magical to experience in the evenings. The primary bathroom features a large walk-in shower with floor to ceiling onyx walls, and a custom Nordica Sauna with salt therapy. Yoga in the wood paneled bonus room off of the primary is an absolute treat. Nurtured Nests, a renowned healthy home design and environmental consulting company, worked with the current owners to realize their dream of transforming the home into a sanctuary of health and wellness for their family. An ultra-filtration water system was installed to provide high quality water with high flow contaminate removal and whole house water filtration conditioner. Outside, enjoy various outdoor living spaces, meandering pathways that lead you to breathtaking views, cozy built-in sitting areas, an outdoor kitchen and dining room, and a gorgeous pool with spa and Baja shelf. A magical retreat, just moments away from all that the Westside has to offer.
