Timeless Mid-Century Modern Elegance in Beachwood Canyon. This Richard Banta-designed 1961 Mid-Century Modern classic embodies the effortless cool and sophistication of its era with clean lines, open spaces, and an organic connection to nature. Holding court high in Beachwood Canyon, this architectural gem offers breathtaking, cinematic views stretching from the Hollywood Sign across the canyon, a true star-worthy setting. Inside, Banta's signature open-concept design takes center stage, with floor-to-ceiling glass walls flooding the space with natural light and seamlessly connecting the indoors to the expansive end to end deck. Experience California living at its finest, by having morning coffee with the sunrise, and cocktail hours with moonlit canyon views. The kitchen has been elevated for modern living, featuring high-end appliances and dramatic onyx countertops. The open dining and living areas are perfect for entertaining against a stunning canyon backdrop. Retreat to the primary suite, where patio access invites peaceful mornings with views of the Hollywood sign right from your bed. The guest bedroom feels like a secluded hideaway ideal for visitors or a chic home office. With a street-level carport with garage door and built-in storage, this home blends function with undeniable Hollywood history and charm. Just moments away from Beachwood Cafe, Franklin Village's shops and restaurants and the 101. Whether you're a filmmaker, artist, or simply someone who appreciates iconic design and killer views, this is the dream. Public Records show Sq.Ft. at 1,280, floor plan measured at 1,435 Sq. Ft.

Built in 1961
