N/A, Los Angeles,

Tucked away in a serene cul-de-sac in Laurel Canyon, this circa 1962 mid-century modern showpiece -- originally designed by artist Jean Edelstein and architect David Crompton, with gardens by the legendary Garrett Eckbo -- embodies the timeless elegance of its era. Walls of glass seamlessly unite indoors and out, bathing the home in natural light while framing lush gardens, a tranquil fountain, and secluded hillside views. Clean lines, warm wood accents, and terrazzo floors enhance its graceful, fluid layout, which offers five bedrooms, four bathrooms, and a cozy den. An expansive 1,100-square-foot flexible-use space with a private entrance and en-suite bath provides the perfect grand primary suite, creative studio, entertainment space, or private guest retreat. Thoughtfully preserved and meticulously refined, this nearly 4,000-square-foot, three-story residence balances form and function, featuring a gourmet kitchen, multiple private decks, and a seamless connection to its natural surroundings. Ideally located near studios, hiking trails, scenic overlooks, and the Mulholland Tennis Club, with easy access to Beverly Hills, Studio City, and Hollywood, this is a rare opportunity to own an authentic mid-century sanctuary of style, privacy, and serenity in the coveted Wonderland School District.
