Residential on 1 Acres

N/A, Los Angeles,

Welcome to 2291 N Hobart Blvd, a stunning expression of glass and steel form accented by a striking brick facade. The property stands as one of the most distinguished homes in the hills of Los Feliz. Designed by acclaimed architect Amir Farr, the residence exemplifies the elegance of mid-century architecture. Thoughtfully composed with an acute attention to clean lines, proportion, and flow, the home celebrates timeless design while offering a sense of effortless sophistication. The property was most recently reimaged by Dennis Smith, the last surviving partner of the renowned architectural firm Buff and Hensman, adding further depth and legacy to its pedigree. Set on a half-acre lot that combines generous flat grounds with sweeping panoramic views from the ocean to DTLA and Griffith Park just beyond your doorstep. Inside, the lower level is a masterclass in seamless indoor-outdoor living. Expansive Fleetwood floor-to-ceiling doors blur the boundary between interior and exterior, opening the living and kitchen areas to a serene backyard and patio space complete with pool, spa, and terraced landscaping. From the patio, the Los Angeles skyline stretches across the horizon, encompassing the home's oversized views. On the north side, the home borders Griffith Park, offering an uninterrupted panorama of lush greenery and the iconic Observatory all framed like living art through walls of glass. Beyond the home's winding staircases, the upstairs living quarters invite a sense of calm.

Three bedrooms and a cantilevered den space occupy the second floor, offering ample space to grow. The spacious primary bedroom and its en-suite bath are bathed in natural light, thanks to an expansive west-facing wall of floor-to-ceiling glass that captures the afternoon sun and offers stunning sunset views. The home was thoughtfully designed with premium amenities, including state-of-the-art solar panels to energy efficiency, as well as a private sauna off of the primary bath. Situated in prime Los Feliz, just moments from Vermont and Hillhurst Avenues, this home presents a rare opportunity to own a vibrant architectural gem in one of Los Angeles' most coveted neighborhoods.
