N/A, Los Angeles,

This museum quality mid century modern home designed in 1956 by noted architect David Hyun has been updated by Standard Architecture and has claimed the AIA Los Angeles Residential Design Award, 2020. The fresh design maintained the original structure while masterfully reshaping the interior living spaces with warm natural finishes. The layered butterfly roof is the essence of its allure. The underside of the roof flowing into the structures' ceiling is clad in Cedarwood that compliments the palette of white and grey. Expansive living space that seamlessly opens pool and outdoor living space. Secluded exterior wellness area complete with sauna, cold plunge, and outdoor shower. The architecture respects its mid century roots while advancing its relationship to the finely curated landscape and abundance of natural light.
