Architectural Post-and-Beam with Iconic Views. Perched in the heart of Silver Lake, this rare mid century residence was designed and built in 1959 by renowned architect Leonard Brunswick as his personal home. A striking example of Post-and-Beam modernism, the property showcases Brunswick's timeless design principles, clean lines, open spaces, and a seamless connection to the landscape, view and endless blue skies. Set on a private street to street hillside lot, the home offers breathtaking panoramic views of the Hollywood Sign, Griffith Observatory, and beyond. Expansive walls of glass flood the interiors with natural light, while framing iconic Los Angeles vistas from nearly every room. The main living area features soaring ceilings, original beam detailing, and wraparound glass that dissolves the boundary between indoors and out. Thoughtfully preserved and minimally altered, the home retains its mid-century character. The 3-bedroom, 2 1/2 bath layout includes a primary bedroom suite with newly remodeled bathroom and decorative fireplace, an expansive second bedroom with jaw dropping views, a smaller bedroom, suitable as a nursery or intimate guest room and a sun-drenched studio/office ideal for creative work. Outside, off the the kitchen and living space, an expansive deck with plenty of room for dining or lounging and, in the private and gated front yard, a cozy redwood hot tub for evenings stargazing or an early morning soak.

Located moments from Sunset Junction and a stones throw to all of the exciting shops and restaurants in Silverlake, Los Feliz, Atwater and Echo Park - this is a chic and easy getaway, the perfect spot to rest and reflect, to gather and to celebrate. A warm and wonderful home with beautiful bones, style, pedigree and forever views - where you can watch the sun rise and set, create a peaceful life and enjoy all that the area has to offer.
