N/A, Los Angeles,

This reimagined residence has been given a stunning designer renovation while preserving the essence of iconic modernists like Richard Neutra, Harry Gesner, and the Case Study homes. A dramatic frosted-glass entry leads into a spacious open-concept living area. The angled living room wall is wrapped in tongue-and-groove planks that rise into soaring ceilings, setting the stage for both warmth and drama. Post-and-beam details and walls of glass stretch the length of the south-facing home, opening every room to a generous deck with sweeping views of Laurel Canyon. Light floods in throughout the day, and from your perch in the trees you can watch deer, coyote, and other wildlife pass by; all while being just minutes from the Sunset Strip, Studio City, and the major studios. The renovation includes updated flooring, new front and rear decks, Nest-controlled HVAC, upgraded electrical and plumbing, lighting, tankless water heater, and Milgard sliding glass doors. The chef's European-inspired kitchen and skylit bath feature custom cabinetry, quartz counters, Carrara marble mosaic tile, and designer fixtures, paired with top-tier stainless steel LG appliances including a gas range, vented microwave, dishwasher, refrigerator, washer, and dryer. The freestanding wood-burning fireplace is accented with glass tile, while original cone light fixtures and louvered windows highlight the authentic midcentury character. With its blend of architectural pedigree, thoughtful modern upgrades, and an unbeatable setting, this Hollywood Hills treehouse is a rare opportunity for a buyer with an eye for design. Weekly gardener included.
