N/A, Pacific Palisades,

Hidden behind walls of mature landscaping sits an elegant, completely private, comfortable modern house. Combining innovative, timeless design and architecture the house is constructed with the finest craftsmanship and quality available; providing the utmost upscale habitability while successfully relating to nature and the park-like grounds dotted with mature trees and landscaping. The site and structure provide peace and serenity from the daily complications of urban living. When entering the house, the juxtaposition of the wavy art accented wall, the terrazzo like floor, and the walls of glass, adjacent to the koi pond set the tone. LEED Gold certified to boot the structure offers five bedrooms and eight bathrooms, a media/music room and bar, a formal dining room plus wine cellar and ping pong room and outdoor kitchen, hot tub environment and bocce ball court. The main floor is defined by an interior arched gallery walkway running between, and parallel, to a long outdoor pool, a two story high ceilinged living room and open state of the art European kitchen. Behind the formal, yet informal spaces, there is a library/den/family room plus comfortable guest quarters with its now outdoor space. The luxurious main bedroom suite, with spacious closets, overlooks the pool. Placed on the North side of the grounds, facing Southwest the structure takes full advantage of the light and breezes from the Pacific Ocean, which is only a stones throw away. Most of the rooms face the gardens and pool. A generous garage and plenty of room for one's personal car collection is attached. The adjacent property is also for sale providing a possibility of owning a potentially multi generational compound. The house is in the company of several Case Study houses that still remain, including the Eames House next door. The structure is also part of the coveted Huntington, Palisades tract.
