Residential on 0 Acres

N/A, Los Angeles,

A hidden gem in the hills of Beachwood Canyon, this 1920s Spanish Revival home offers a warm, romantic elegance. Original architectural details include graceful curved windows and a dramatic Batchelder fireplace create an inviting sense of history. Natural light flows throughout, furnishing glimpses of the surrounding gardens and the canyon beyond. Vaulted ceilings add volume and airiness to the living spaces, while the three spacious bedrooms and two full baths provide comfortability. Thoughtful updates to the home offer modern convenience without compromising its period charm. This home blends timeless architecture with everyday comfort. Step outside and discover a private garden sanctuary designed by landscape designer Steve Silva, perfect for entertaining. Stunning Eden roses climb the exterior wall. A curated mix of mature olive trees, blooming jasmine, camellias, and a variety of citrus including orange, lemon, lime, and grapefruit wrap the property in year-round color and fragrance. Stone paths wind through lush plantings and lead to a small orchard where a fig trees joins the canopy evoking a sense of Mediterranean charm. The garden is replete with intimate moments, including a patio paved in salvaged 17th-century terracotta tiles, a quiet testament to timeless materials and old-world craftsmanship. Just minutes from both Franklin and Larchmont Villages, this is a rare opportunity to own a piece of Los Angeles history with enduring style and reserved sophistication.
