1000 OAKS, Oakland,

1108 Chestnut Street in Oakland, California, is a two-story multifamily residential building originally constructed in 1965. The property comprises six studio units, all of which are well-maintained and in good condition. In January 2025, a brand-new roof was installed, accompanied by a 10-year labor and material warranty, ensuring durability and minimizing future maintenance concerns. A standout feature of the property is the large gated parking lot, offering secure and ample parking for tenants and guests. The building spans approximately 2,320 square feet and sits on a 6,498 square-foot lot. Its convenient location provides easy access to public transportation, including BART, downtown Oakland, and highways 880 and 980. This property exemplifies accessible, secure, and comfortable urban living.
