Warmth, character, and timeless craftsmanship come together at 14837 Hart Street—a two-bedroom home that feels both grounded and full of possibility. With beautifully preserved vintage details and a layout that invites both gathering and quiet retreat, this is the kind of home that lingers in your memory long after you leave.

The spacious living area is crowned by striking wood beam ceilings and anchored by a stunning stone fireplace, offering a cozy and expansive space for everyday living. Original built-in cabinetry adds charm and function, while the kitchen overflows with vintage personality—blending form and function in a way that honors its roots. Both bedrooms offer peaceful sanctuaries, and the floor plan flows effortlessly to a private backyard framed by bougainvillea and mature plantings.

The freshly painted ivory exterior and immaculately maintained landscaping set a serene tone from the start. A detached back structure with skylights and electricity offers incredible potential for an ADU, studio, or creative workspace, while the attached garage presents junior ADU possibilities for even more flexibility.
