N/A, Redondo Beach,

Sometimes the best things come in simple packages – this Redondo Beach one level home is just that. Being offered for the first time in over 50 years, it has everything you need in a nice, neat bundle. Let’s cover the highlights – 4 bedroom, one level layout; open kitchen with stainless appliances; the coolest freestanding fireplace to warm the living room; a front yard full of beautiful roses and a large grass area; plenty of off-street parking including a covered carport; a large backyard with a covered patio, shed and huge garden area (we’re talking enough space to supply veggies for the whole neighborhood); and an oversized garage for the creative type that likes to wrench on the hotrod or build whatever the mind can imagine. There are new floors throughout the entire house and the inside just received a fresh coat of paint. The functional floor plan provides 3 bedrooms together and a 4th bedroom that could be expanded to make an en-suite primary or be used as-is as a guest room or home office. In terms of location, you really can’t ask for more. Washington Elementary and Adams Middle School are conveniently located just down the street and there are several neighborhood parks equally as close. Shopping and restaurants are near enough to ditch the car and travel by foot or bike, and commuting routes are easily accessible if you need to jump on the freeway for work or want to enjoy the endless entertainment opportunities in Southern California. This all sounds great, but you really need to see this one in person before itâ€™s gone!

Built in 1955
